

I am writing in partial opposition to RM-10782. While I support giving what were once called Novice privileges to current Technician licensees in the Amateur Radio Service, I believe there is still a place for Element One testing of Morse Code/continuous wave ability. I would like to see it maintained as an element of the Amateur Extra license requirements and will address this further in comments to RM-10784.